

Field Training in World Hunger and Malnutrition:
Practical Skills to Make a Difference
May 17-30, 2009

AGRICULTURE

- * Food Production Basics
- * Roof-Top Gardening
- * Low-tech options for Irrigation
- * Under-utilized Tropical Plants
- * Sustainable Fertilizers and Natural Pest-Control
- * Gardening for Families affected by HIV/AIDS

FOOD STORAGE AND PRESERVATION

- *Low-tech options for post-harvest storage
- *Refrigeration without electricity
- *Solar dryers to preserve seasonal fruit and vegetables
- *Food preservation techniques

NUTRITION

- *Leaf concentrate to prevent and treat child malnutrition
- *Leaf powder to fortify foods
- *Low-cost protein options
- *Nutritious weaning foods

PRIMARY HEALTH CARE

- *Child Survival Technologies
- *Combating Child Malnutrition: Practical Strategies
- *Preventing Hidden Hunger

ALTERNATIVE HOUSEHOLD ENERGIES

- *Fuel Efficient Cookstoves
- *Solar Cooking

APPROPRIATE TECHNOLOGIES

- *Water purification technologies
- * Low-tech water pumps
- * Low-cost well drilling
- * Sanitation options

COMMUNITY DEVELOPMENT

- * Participatory Non-Formal Adult Education
- * Mobilizing for Action
- * Needs and Resource Assessment

SIFAT 2009 Field Training

Join us for 2 weeks of learning hands-on practical skills at the SIFAT International Training Campus located on 176 acres in Lineville, Alabama. (1.5 hours from Atlanta or Birmingham).

We are collaborating with several other non-profit training institutions to offer you world-class training in proven practical skills that can impact the lives of the poor around the globe. Upon graduation you will receive a certificate suitable for framing.

Funding for the development of this Field Study was provided by a NIH Grant through the Sparkman Center for Global Health and the UAB School of Public Health.

Cost: $350 per week (includes tuition, project supplies, notebook, handouts)

Additional resource materials available for purchase.

Room and board are extra. Please contact us for available options.

Contact: Kathy Bryson, MPH, MHS
International Training Director
SIFAT
2944 County Road 113
Lineville, AL 36266
(256) 396-2015
www.sifat.org